‘Diving is an attempt by a player to gain an unfair advantage by falling to the ground and possibly feigning an injury, to give the impression that a foul has been committed.’

‘Players do it, managers have a moan over it, and some critics have accused divers of ‘ruining’ the modern game and football itself.’

Diving.wikipedia Goal.com

‘It’s a form of cheating, where a player attempts to get the referee to call a foul and, depending on where they take their dive, give their team a penalty shot.’

‘Diving is also called simulation.
If you are running down the field and someone touches you briefly (or doesn’t even touch you at all sometimes) and you “dive” to the ground and pretend like you just got shot by a gun.’
